1 About Lajamanu

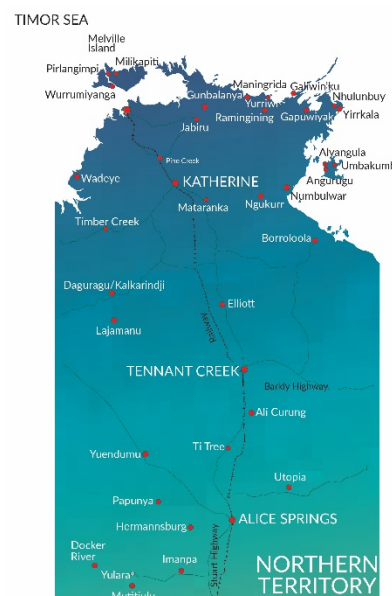

Lajamanu is located south west of Katherine on the northern edge of the Tanami Desert and the eastern side of Hooker Creek as part of the Hooker Creek Aboriginal Land Trust. Lajamanu borders the southern boundary of Wave Hill Station.

Lajamanu was traditionally Gurindji country. However, Lajamanu was established as a welfare settlement in 1949 and ceased in the 1970s when Lajamanu Council came in as the first Community Government Council in the Northern Territory. During this time, many Walpiri people from Yuendumu were relocated to Lajamanu.

Lajamanu is a very strong traditional community where English is a second language. The predominant residents are now the Warlpiri people who actively maintain their language and culture.

Warlpiri is the main language in Lajamanu, spoken by about 77 per cent of people. English is also spoken as a second language.

1.2 Power and water

Electricity is supplied by a diesel generator. Chlorinated and fluoridated town water is supplied by bore, and waste water is treated in sewerage ponds on the outskirts of town.

1.3 ICT information

- Full telephone and internet services.
- Broadband Satellite Internet Services – Telstra
- The community is serviced by Telstra 4G only. Other mobile carriers are unavailable.
- Television – Digital

1.4 Access

1.4.1 Air

The community has its own aircraft available for charter. It is operated by Chartair. Refer to 14.1

1.4.2 Road

By road the community can be accessed from Katherine as well as from Alice Springs. From Katherine, access is via the sealed Buntine Highway and then via 110 km of unsealed road. The travel time is around 6 hours' drive. Access can also be made from Alice Springs via the Tanami Road to the Lajamanu road, both of which are mostly unsealed and often in poor repair. The distance from Alice Springs is approx. 870 km.

1.4.3 Bodhi Bus

Founded in 2009, Bodhi Bus specializes in providing remote area passenger bus services, currently accommodating and connecting over 60 remote Australian communities throughout the Top End of the Northern Territory and beyond.

They provide regular services to communities and locations such as Numbulwar, Ngukurr, Minyerri, Borroloola, Lajamanu, Kalkaringi, Timber Creek, Kununurra, Wyndham, Elliott, Tennant Creek, Bulman, Gapuwiyak and Darwin as well as remote outstations at passengers requests.

Bodhi Bus provides transport to individual travelers, territory health patients and corporate clients to and from Katherine with most connecting services the following day. For Charter enquiries contact the operations team.

Bodhi Bus operates services to communities bi-weekly and to Darwin four times a week for your convenience.

Please phone or see the website as dates and pricing is subject to change.

1.8 Planning a community visit

The Northern Territory's remote communities are so diverse that it's crucial to learn about them and get prepared before you visit. They range in size from large towns to very small outstations. Road conditions vary from sealed highways to rough bush tracks. Resources for visitors are limited so make sure you are organised and take what you need with you.

There are regional differences in language, culture, social structures, politics, authority of land owners and clan elders. Understanding and respect for these different ways is critical to successful work in these contexts. The NTG have put together a number of resources to help you plan a successful visit.
